NOVEMBER
24
FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY
MOMENT OF MADNESS: the people vs. Jack Ruby
by ELMER GERTZ

On November 24, 1963, Jack Ruby killed Lee Harvey Oswald under the glare of television lights, in full view of millions of people. Under the American system of justice, would he receive a fair trial?

The distinguished attorney, Elmer Gertz, presents an intimate and highly fascinating picture of the incredible legal maneuverings that took place behind the scene. Here is the story of men in conflict, united in the search for justice, but differing as to its meanings and attainment. $6.95 at your favorite bookseller.

Elmer Gertz, one of the attorneys for Ruby, is also the author of A HANDFUL OF CLIENTS, a record of some of the fascinating cases in which he has participated.

FOLLETT PUBLISHING COMPANY
Chicago/New York